

WHO ARE WE?

Library Freedom Project is creating a network of values-driven librarians working together to build information democracy.

OUR APPROACH TO TEACHING PRIVACY

We believe in the combined power of long-term collective organizing and short-term immediate harm reduction.

We know everyone's relationship to privacy is unique. What feels comfortable and reasonable for one person might not for another.

We use real-life scenarios and practical examples to make our programming tangible and actionable.

We know communities trust their library for technical expertise. We use a train-the-trainer model to ensure broad impact.

We understand that data is powerful. Taking control of our digital footprint is one way to take back power from private entities and data brokers.

WHAT WE OFFER

Our free trainings can be adapted to fit your library's needs! Some of our privacy trainings include:

- Skeptical approaches to AI
- Understanding surveillance in your community
- Conducting privacy audits in libraries
- ...and more!

We offer free resources on our website, including:

- An anti-doxing toolkit
- Policy templates for stronger privacy in the library
- Privacy 101 flyers on a variety of topics

Library Freedom Institute is our intensive privacy training for library workers. Ask us about applying!
